

Senior Electrical Project Engineer

This is an outstanding opportunity to join a pro-active and highly acclaimed multiple service engineering consultancy, focused on continued national growth. Established for nearly 50 years and employee-owned, this Australian firm is renowned for its technical expertise, service ethic and strong client-focus.

Reporting to the Electrical Section Manager, this key role is supported by an established electrical services design team involved in health, telecommunications, high-rise, retail, industrial and educational sectors. Key responsibilities include providing technical guidance to the team, budgeting, project management, co-ordination and superintendence of projects. You will also be involved in marketing the firm's services and obtaining new commissions.

Appropriate tertiary qualifications and a high degree of technical design competency in Electrical Engineering, supported by project management capabilities are essential. You should also have strong commercial acumen, a team-oriented approach and the ability to liaise effectively at all levels.

Your future career prospects are unlimited if you are driven and inspired by this chance to share in our client's success. Please call David Wood for a confidential discussion or forward your application.
