

Executive Director

Fauna & Flora International Australia

Contribute at top level to an organisation at the forefront of global conservation, saving species from extinction and habitats from destruction, whilst improving the livelihood of local people through innovative partnerships. Founded in 1903, Fauna & Flora International is the world's longest established international conservation body.

Working with sister organisations in the US, UK and internationally, the Executive Director of FFI Australia will play a key role in developing and leading this rapidly growing organisation, ensuring that FFI's development, communications and conservation strategies are globally aligned and effectively delivered. Your objectives are to create forward strategy, increase awareness with important audiences and grow FFI Australia's fundraising income both at home and abroad.

Your proven record in management and conservation, strategic planning, communication and fundraising is essential for promoting partnerships and collaboration, and inspiring team excellence.

If you have the vision and expertise we seek, and share a commitment to succeed, send your application or contact Philip Mayers or Michelle Varcoe.

Global
not-for-profit at forefront of conservation

Make an impact on the future

Newly created leadership role

Tel. +61 3 9629 6999
E cv@dakinmayers.com.au